The Catalyst Story Institute would like to congratulate all StoryArk content creators on all their wonderful work this year! It's always exciting to watch the creative process in action, especially when working with the next generation of artists and storytellers. We hope you feel proud of what you've accomplished and energized to continue your career in this industry.

Catalyst welcomes all StoryArk students to join us at our annual national festival in Duluth this Oct 4-7 to showcase your work and meet other professional storytellers from around the world!

More about Catalyst:

Catalyst is a year-round storyteller institute championing creative voices of all levels as they develop their stories and advance their careers. Our mission is for content creators to make a living they love from where they love living, by lowering the barriers between creators, audiences, and industry. Our institute and festival programs focus on increasing access to education (high school, college & professional development), civic engagement, economic empowerment, and creative community development.

What makes us unique is our focus on episodic storytelling. There are hundreds of film schools and thousands of film festivals, but few pathways specifically for long-form (aka, TV) style storytelling. The rise of indie TV has led to the creation of a niche market of hundreds of high-quality television series representing the next generation of voices. Our outstanding talent and their work have gone on to achieve remarkable distinctions such as Emmy nominations and BAFTA awards, as well as attain indie distribution, network development and career advancement on platforms like Netflix, Hulu, NBC & Apple TV+. We invite you to join us in discovering the world's best independently created shows and new voices.

Would you mind taking a survey at the end of the festival?!

I know what you're thinking..

BUT

It's very short and it helps us with grants and programming in the future!

A huge thank you to our supporters!
